

Dosage and Home Practice Matters: Improving Intelligibility in Children with Severe Speech Sound Disorders

Three times as many children with severe speech sound disorders made significant functional progress in intelligibility when they received 21-30 sessions, scheduled twice per week with an SLP-directed home program compared to those who received fewer sessions or those whose treatment plan did not contain all of these elements.

